

Apply to be part of the PRIDE Teacher Cohort!

The P.R.I.D.E. Teacher Cohort is a collection of like-minded early education teachers and professionals eager to learn more about implementing positive racial identity development strategies in the classroom and furthering their professional knowledge and development.

What the Cohort Will Do

- Engage in enriching professional development where you'll learn how to incorporate P.R.I.D.E.-ful activities in the classroom
- Commit to one year of participation, beginning in May, 2018
- Attend at least two P.R.I.D.E. speaker events and follow-up training sessions
- Extend your learning throughout the year by participating in private online forums aimed at exploring P.R.I.D.E.-related issues and questions
- Create and disseminate P.R.I.D.E. related activities, ideas, and experiences to be compiled in a publicly-sharable document
- Participate in two Zoom meetings per year along with local colleagues and educators from across the country

Who is Eligible

- Any teacher currently teaching in pre-K to 3rd grade classrooms in the City of Pittsburgh (Cohort is limited to 20 participants)
- Preference will be given to teachers at schools in the P.R.I.D.E. target areas of Homewood, East Liberty, and the Hill District

How to Apply

Simply click here and fill out the application.

The P.R.I.D.E. team will be contacting participants by the end of March.

Questions?

Email Dr. Aisha White, P.R.I.D.E. Director
aiw9@pitt.edu

University of Pittsburgh
SCHOOL OF EDUCATION
OFFICE OF
CHILD DEVELOPMENT

