Join Dr. Xia Chao (Duquesne University) for the third of four interactive workshops in a series dedicated to helping educators understand the literacies, cultures, and needs of the Pittsburgh area's refugee communities. This workshop series seeks to incorporate the findings of Dr. Chao's research funded by the National Geographic Society in order to offer local educators insight into working with immigrant and refugee-background students and their families. This session will help educators learn classroom practices to create an engaging and inviting classroom.
